ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED BY THE JUDEANS.

Louis Marshall Declares the Hebrews Are Not Interiopers, but Here by Bight of Long Residence-Pioneers of the Bace Rebuffed by Gov. Peter Stuyvesant

The 250th anniversary of the landing of the Jews in New York was celebrated at the Savoy Hotel last evening by the "Judeans," a Jewish literary society, with a banquet and a number of addresses by prominent members of the society.

Edward Lauterbach, who was at 'the Savoy but was unable to attend the banquet, said that a movement was on foot, headed by Jacob Schiff, to celebrate the anniversary more elaborately next fall, probably about Thanksgiving Day, and that t was probable that a monument of some kind would then be erected in commemoration of the event.

Henry M. Leipziger, president of the Society of Judgeans, made a short address in calling the meeting to order, in which be outlined the story of the coming here of twenty-seven Jews in 1855, relating how the then Governor of New Netherlands, Peter Stuyvesant, refused at first to let them land. They were Portuguese Jews who had been driven out of Brazil and had barely enough resources to get them here. Stuyvesant finally consented to their landing and staying here provisionally until the question could be referred back to the Dutch East India Company in Holland.

The result of this reference was that the Jews were permitted to remain here, the directors of the Dutch East India Company saying that the company was under too many obligations to the Jews to make it otherwise than unworthy to exclude them from establishing twemselves with privilege to trade in New Netherlands.

After the opening address there was a prayer by the Rey. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes and then the opening paper of the evening was read by Louis Marshall.

The title of the paper was "Elements The title of the paper was "Elements of the Population: Past and Present," and the burden of Mr. Marshall's argument was that the Jew was not an interloper here, as he was so often twitted with being, but that he was here by right of res idence of as long standing as the English of New England and of Virginia. The advent of the Jews in America, Mr. Marshall continued, antedated even the settlement of New England and Virginia, as there were Jews even on the ships that brought Columbus and his expedition to the American shores.

hus and his expedition to the American shores.

Mr. Marshall asserted with much vigor that the Jews were entitled to hold up their heads with the Puritans of New England, the planters of Virginia and the Knickerbockers of New York. In confirmation of this he made the statement that John Jacob Astor, whom he described as the founder of the family of that name with its princely wealth," had at a time early in his career beaten furs at $1 a day for one Hyman Levy. This circumstance, Mr. Marshall said, was not mentioned to put any blot upon the Astor escutcheon, but simply by way of illustrating the contemporaneity of Jewish with the oldest American families of present prominence.

Leon Hubner read a paper on the "Jews in the Arts, Sciences and Professions," and in speaking of how much the Jews were identified with music in America said that John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," was the son of a Jewish mother.

GLORIOUS WESTCHESTER BAR! So Depew Says, and Brackett and Several

The Westchester County Bar Association gave its annual dinner at the Murray Hill Hotel last night, and all the speakers, including Senators Depew and Brackett, told the Westchester lawyers that nothing on earth could touch them and but few things in Heaven came anywhere near. They say such things annually in the heart of Man-

It all began with the presentation of a loving cup to Theodore H. Silkman, Surrogate of Westchester for eleven years

"You deserve'it," Assemblyman J. M. Wainwright, presiding, cried to the Surrogate, "don't deny it. Guilt is written on your face; you stand convicted.

Then the Surrogate said how glad he was to see lawyers old and young open the doors of the Surrogate's Court and come in and practise some law before him. No such bar in New York as the Westchester bar,

Then Senator Depew was called upon as a lawmaker. Said the Senator:

"When early in my career I practised before old Judge Brown he used to say it is unhappily the business of the Court to expound laws made by idiots who know not what follies they put in the statute books."

to expound laws made by idiots who know not what follies they put in the statute books."

The Senator then touched upon James P. Sanders, the Peekskill lawyer, erstwhile a hatter, whose death last winter left the Senator dean of the Westchester bar.

"I have no emotions so warm," went on Senator Depew, "as when I stand before the old homestead and think of my early struggles for existence at the Westchester bar. I can never shake off the early home Calvinism which, like Senator Brackett in politics, stands without hitching. Not the Inner or Middle Temples, nor yet Gray's Inn. homes of the benchers in England, inspire in me so much reverence as the Westchester bar when I go back there.

"Yet the old days of rhetoric and ornate oratory are gone. You can't quote Latin before Judge Keogh. I remember when I was a boy and the Harvard and Yale crews used to come to train in the Bay of Peekskill, one of the youngsters said to the others, 'Why, we have progressed so far that I, who am 21, know more than my father, who is 76.' Then turning to my father, arough Dutchman, the youth added, 'What do you think about it, old man?'

"I was think what a damn fool your father must be,' replied the old man."

Senator Edgar T. Brackett, the next speaker, said in part:

"I don't know anything railroads can't get at Albany. They'll give a railroad a right to condemn anything on earth and then make strict provisions as to how careful you must be in cutting down Canada thistles. But to come to your Westchester bar, my partner once said when he came to fight a case in your caurts, 'Why, they had a verdict against me before I could turn round and spit.' The safety of the State depends in no small degree on the learning and strength of the bar.'

Other speakers were Judge Keogh, ex-Congressman Belford and Judges Woodward, Scott and Maddox.

WOULD LOWER FERRY RATES. Beard of Freeholders Acting Under a New Jersey Law of 1799.

The Hudson County Board of Freeholders has called a public hearing at the Court House in Jersey City on May 18 at 2 P. M. for the purpose of hearing argument on the proposition to fix the rate of ferriage on the west Shore ferry between Weehawken and New York and the Staten Island ferry between Bayonne and Port Richmond. 187 West 120th street. Many of the heads of the departments of the city government were present, as well as most of the fare on these ferries is two cents. All the other ferry companies charge three cents.

MATCHETT ON ESPERANTO.

He Touches Lightly on Volapuk, but Has Boundless Faith in the New Language. There was an Esperanto meeting of the Allied Arts Association of Brooklyn last night at the home of E. V. It was said by the members to be of deep significance, as it is the first of a series whose object is to bring into universal use the proposed international language. Esperanto.

"The scientist, the musician, the artist, the litterateur," say the circulars, "all are alike welcome. Intellectuality and sociability go hand in hand."

Eugene V. Brewster is the president. He was of Princeton, '93, but he lived a long time in Flatbush. The bi-weekly meetings of the club, in accordance with its aims, are devoted to most everything from sociability to a lecture on Ibsen. Last night it took the form of a lecture on Esperanto, by C. H. Matchett, who was the candidate for President on the Socialist-Labor party in 1896.

Before kar. Matchett began his explanation of Esperanto Mr. Brewster explained that he had ordered 200 copies of an Esperanto grammar and had intended to send a copy to each member so that the language would be learned and spoken last night. There is to be a fine of a cent for each laspe into English and members were recommended to bring plenty of cents. There was a sigh of relief when he said that the books had not come in time for that part of the program.

Mr. Matchett touched lightly on the fate of Volapük.

"Esperanto is bound to be the universal language," said he. "My object is now to initiate a movement to start a propaganda for it in this country. In Boston I started a club and afterward organized the American Esperanto Association. I have no doubt that the movement will spread over the country."

DOG JUMPED THREE STORIES Fox Terrier Seares Crowd and Is Scratched by Cat and Killed by Cop.

A fox terrier, yelping, snapping and running in circles, turned into Thirtieth street from Third avenue yesterday afternoon, and went up the stairs of the tene-ment house on the southwest corner like a streak of lightning. He didn't stop until he landed in front of Mrs. Rosa Albert's doer on the top floor, where he continued barking. Mrs. Albert opened the doer, and just then her usually peaceable oat, Nigger, which has lately become a mother, darted out. Nigger landed on the terrier's back, and mother, darted out.

Nigger landed on the terrier's back, and got in such heavy scratching on the dog's face, that he started down stairs on the double quick, dislodging Nigger. He found the doer of Mrs. Brocker's apartment on the third floor open, and went straight through to a front window, knocking over a small table laden with dishes.

The dog jumped through the raised window to the fire escape, and without pausing to consider, leaped the whole three stories into the street. Then he scampered down Third avenue for a blook, turned in his tracks and started on another racing trip through Thirtieth street.

By this time the block was pretty well alarmed. Every one ran to cover. A grocer's boy on a delivery wagon hurled a bushel basket at the dog's head with such good aim that it settled over him and held him a prisoner until Policeman Rooney of the East Thirty-fifth street station got there. Hooney peeked through a crack in the basket, saw what he thought ras the dog's head and fired two shots. When he lifted the basket the dog grabueu at his hand and started toward the East River, dragging his hind legs. Rooney gave chase and finally plugged a bullet into his head.

TICKETS WERE ALL RIGHT.

Theater Late for the Show. J. C. Judge of 376 Clinton street, Brooklyn, gave a fifteen-year-old boy $4 yester-day and sent him to the Garden Theater to get two seats for last night's performance of "The College Widow." Mr. Judge instructed the box to bring the tickets back to him in Brooklyn. After getting the seats the boy started away, but came back to the box office and said that he didn't know how he was to get back to Brooklyn, as he had no money. He needed 15 cents to get across the river.

and said that he didn't know how he was to get back to Brooklyn, as he had no money. He needed 15 cents to get across the river, he said, and the box office man let him have that amount.

The boy was thankful and went away, but not to Brooklyn. He seemed to think thas he had been told by Judge to get the seats and wait outside the theater until Judge appeared.

Judge began to get anxious at 7:30 o'clook when the boy didn't turn up, and he telephoned to the theater giving the young-ster's description. The box office man remembered the boy and how he had staked him to carfare. Judge was told to come over to the theater and he could have the seats even if the messenger didn't turn up.

Judge and a friend waited in Brooklyn as long as they could and then started for this borough. The show had begun when they got to the Garden Theater. Standing outside the playhouse in the shadow of a pillar was the messenger.

"Where have you been?" he was asked.

"Ah, I was waiting for the man to turn up for his tickets; that's what I thought I was to do," said he. "I bought some food with the money the man in, the box office gave me."

Toronto Man Tells Tenderioin Police Why He Paid 50 Cents for a Cutlet. A little man who described himself as M. Strauss, a jeweler of Toronto, went into the Hofbrau Haus at Broadway and Thirtieth Hofbrau Haus at Broadway and Thirtieth street, yesterday and ordered a veal cutlet and a glass of beer without looking at the price list. When he finished, he placed a quarter on the table, and when the waiter handed him a check for seventy cents the man from Toronto declared he would not pay it because it was too high.

There was a dispute and he finally compromised by paying fifty cents for what he had eaten. According to the story Strauss told the Tenderloin police later he was forced to do this because he had been kept in the cellar of the restaurant until he agreed to pay.

A general alarm was sent out by the police last night for Louis Neustaedter, a real estate broker of 86 Avenue A, who has been missing from home since Friday. On Friday night Capt. Sharkey of the Greenpoint ferryboat Decatur found a hat and cane on his boat. The hat was marked "J. Neustaedter" and also "L. N."

Neustaedter was suffering from locomotor ataxia. His family believe that he has been picked up by somebody and sent to a hospital. The police think he fell or jumped overboard from the ferryboat. He had two sons, Dr. Marcus N. Neustaedter, and Isidor Neustaedter, a lawyer of 111 Rivington street.

WINS MILE AND TWO MILES AT PENNSYLVANIA RELAY MEET.

Garrels Makes New Discus Record, but it Is Rejected-Amsler of Pennsylvania Defeats Western Champion in the Hurdies-Michigan's Record Four Miles

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—The eleventh annual relay carnival given under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania took place at Franklin Field to-day, and the event furnished the usual amount of excitement to local devotees of track and field athletics.

to local devotees of track and field athletics. A rainstorm in the forenoon made the track soft, which with a gloomy afternoon and a cold easterly wind made matters unpleasant for the spectators.

There was a crowd of about 8,000 persons on hand early, and it was liberally sprinkled with college partisans. Every class of student athlete was catered to—grammar schools, high schools, "preps," academies and the colleges of all grades. Vale, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Chicago and Michigan sent entries, but Harvard was an absentee, the Crimson not having a single representative on the field.

By far the most important feature of the meet was the college championships at a mile, two and four miles. The mile especially was extremely exciting, and the finish furnished the biggest sensation of the meet. The issue was between Chicago, Yale and Pennsylvania. Groman of Chicago, who ran the last relay for his team, fell across the finish line and so did the Pennsylvania runner, but Ewing of Yale, who was only a couple of yards away, breusted the worsted and was declared the winner.

move, and he crept across the line and re-ceived second place, while the Chicagoan did not go over for several seconds.

A. A. Stagg of Chicago University cut a wide swath for a while and projected the decision of the finish judges, but Referee J. E. Sullivan drew his attention to Rule XX. of the gintercollegiate A. A. A. laws of athletics which stipulates that the runner's body must be completely across the line be-athletics which stipulates that the runner's body must be completely across the line betore he can be reckeded as having finished. But this did not alleviate the pent up feelings of Mr. Stagg, who then said the Yale man did not touch in the third relay.

Yale turned out for the two miles soon after and had a smashing tussie all through the lourney with Dartmouth and Columbia, but Parsons ran the last relay for the Elis, and he clinched first place by the nice margin of five yards, Dartmouth securing second place, which surprised everybody. Columbia made a good third.

In the four miles Michigan and Yale had it all the way, but Michigan had a trifle the better of it on the homestretch and won from Yale by about two yards. The time was 18 minutes 25 3-5 seconds, and this breaks the former outdoor record of 1s minutes 28 1-5 seconds, made by Pennsylvania with Grant, Quicksall, Mechling and G.W. Orton several years ago, but there is a faster indoor record by five seconds to the credit of Cornell.

Another record was shattered in the championship relay for high schools. The winner was Wendell Phillips High School, and the quartet of boys covered the mile in 3 minutes 34 4-5 seconds, knocking a fifth of a second off the old record, made by the South Division High School of Chicago a couple of years ago.

off the old record made by the South Division High School of Chicago a couple of years ago.

The field events attracted quite a, lot of attention owing to the high standard of the performers. One world's record was broken, but it will never adorn the record tables, because of a technicality. Johnny Garrels of Michigan sent the discus scaling a distance of 185 feet ½ inch, a feat which eclipses all former records, but the Grecian missile was not of the regulation make, and the record was declared void and the West declared that it was again unfairly deprived of its honors.

Garrels's implement was covered with aluminum, was very thin at the convex part and sharp at the edges.

One of the best known big men to the crowd was Shevlin of Yale, whose failure to gain a place in the hammer throwing caused considerable comment. H. Thomas, a classic young giant from Purdue, won the event with the fine throw of 150 feet 10 inches, and Van Duyne of Syracuse was a respectable second 24 feet behind. Parry of Chicago threw with one hand 13s feet 7 inches, and this is a first class performance for the style of throwing. W. W. Coe, who was down on the program as a representative of Oxford University. England, had no trouble in winning the shot, which he propelled 46 feet 1½ inches.

Dray of Yale vaulted 11 feet 8½ inches, which on the soft ground was equal to the world's record. With a dry day and firm take-off it is unknown how far F. Mount Pleasant, the Indian, can go on the broad jump. The Carlisle redskin cleared 23 feet i inch and shows he has the timber of a real record holder.

Ernamus Hall High School and the High School of Commerce had a rare tussle in the mile relay for high schools, and the race resulted in a narrow victory for the former. St John's College, Fordham, ran a splendid race in the relay for colleges, and led nearly sell the way.

There was a check in the winning career of the Columbia team in the match at the Englewood Golf Club yesterday, for although defaults were counted against Brittan and Moore, the college boys lost by 15 to 14. Frank M. Wilson led the home team and beat Stuart Slosson, while Kirkby, McKnight, Dettmer and Mortimer Barnes also scored. The latter is the Manhanset Manor golfer who put up a winning game at last season's midsummer tournaments. The score:

A new record for the Van Cortlandt Park links was recorded yesterday by Bernard Nicholis in the course of a four ball match in which he and Hugh Chilvers defeated Charles Marshall and A. Boyd by 7 up and 6 to play. Nicholis west out in 35 and in with 38. The records for the course until rearranged by changing the tees for this season's play had been Charles Them's 72 for the professionals and Gilman P. Themy's 73 for the amateurs.

There was a crowd on the course, despite the bad weather, but the final cards were returned in the April handicap of the New York Golf Club. The members will hold the qualifying round next Saturday for the May handicap, for classes A. B and C. two prizes in each class.

PINERURAT, April 28.—The handicap of the week brought to a formal end the season's program of golf fixtures, closing a winter of exceptional interest. The scores of the players finishing under 100 follow: players Dnishing under 100 (6110W:

Rain frightened off the players from the hilltop links of the Eastern Parkway Golf Club yesterday, and only seven of the thirty entered returned cards in the match play handicap against bogy. W. P. Momeyer won, finishing all square. D. F. McCabe was 2, R. A. Black 7, R. P. Dow & W. E. Edmister 9, George Drury 12 and D. E. Smith is down. The contest next Saturday will be the first of three to be held for a cup given by H. R. Fergueson. Each contestant may hand in as many duly attested medal play scores as he pleases on these days, and ene will be selected each day, the man who has the lowest average of three best net soores to be the winner.

A mild sensation of the handicaps at the Fox Hills Golf Club yesterday was that the Class B winner made a better gross score than all but three of the Class A men. It will be his last appearance in this humble place. H. Walker, besides winning the Class A prise, won the percentage prize for April and C. F. Ahistrom the percentage cup for Class B.
